COMMENTS/HISTORICAL INFORMATION:

The Evans Chapel Pentecostal Holiness Church was built in 1937 from lumber donated by local resident John D. Lewis. It is a rectangular, front-gabled frame structure of simple design, resting on a concrete-block foundation. The walls are covered with vinyl siding and the roof with raised-seam metal. The side elevations are pierced by small, regularly spaced, double-hung windows; the sashes are recent replacements of the originals. A shallow, gabled vestibule, with modern aluminum-and-glass doors, has recently been added to the main facade, along with a handicapped ramp. A one-story gabled wing has been built perpendicular to the north elevation, and a small, shed-roofed lean-to, containing a pair of small windows, to the south face. North of the church is a community building built in 2000. It is a one-story, gabled-roof edifice with vinyl siding and tin roof. (continued)
